Institute Milestones

1993	IFM and AFM merge to form BIFM creating a single UK-based professional body with Marilyn Standley, FIWFM as Chair.
Inaugural Conference.	1994
1996	Facilities Management World (now Facilitate magazine) first edition.
First Ireland Region Conference.	1997
1999	International SIG established.
Inaugural BIFM Awards showcases FMs as exemplars of professional excellence in customer service and sustainability.	2001
2005	First Salary Survey (now Pay and Prospects).
Inaugural Sustainability Survey.	2007
2009	First Good Practice Guide published.
Nationally accredited BIFM qualifications launched.	2010
2013	Qualification framework expands to cover levels 2-7 as BIFM celebrates 20 years.
Institute's Professional Standards Framework sets the global competence model.	2014
2015	ISO approves international standard for FM as Institute's 'Direct' online learning portal expands CPD options.
Linda Hausmanis becomes first female CEO as the Stoddart Review reveals FM's workplace opportunity.	2016
2017	'State of FM' research finds profession ready to reshape, upskill and extend influence as Institute establishes new policy function and launches training Academy.
Life Safety Working Group begins work, leading and shaping the built environment's response to fire safety after Grenfell.	2017
2018	Manifesto for change marks 25-year anniversary as Institute pinpoints workplace as key differentiator for members and vows to help them improve skills and status, eventually as a chartered body.
'World first' Level 6 Diploma in Workplace, Insight and Change launches as Institute supercharges insights agenda and launches new insight hubs on key topics.	2019
2019	Institute's response to Dame Judith Hackitt's draft recommendations for reform of the building safety regulation post-Grenfell positions FM as key.
the pandemic as Navigating turbulent times webinars series shapes the workplace debate and our Awards introduces a special category for 'COVID-19 Response'.	2020
2021	Communities Review places members at the heart of the Institute as Recognition Programme paves way for experiential route to CIWFM and Impact Awards marks 20 years.
EDI Public Statement outlines IWFM's commitment to improving equity, diversity and inclusion practices, supported by our EDI Focus Group.	2021
2022	Members support IWFM in 'Shaping the Institute together' as revised Professional Standards Framework outlines new competences in building safety, ESG, sustainability, and technology.
nstitute helps shape the Building Safety Act and critical fire safety guidance as IWFM-informed landmark Government FM Strategy published.	2022
2023	Institute's three-year strategy majors on member value as IWFM celebrates 30 years of advancing the profession with new products, services, and Networks.